WHERE PEACE WAS SIGNED—THE PALACE OF VERSAILLES.

Only half the size of St. Peter's in Rome, on the outskirts of Paris, has been the scene of the famous signing of peace treaty of successive international peace designed to bring to an end the greatest war in history. It is now a place of pilgrimage, where the world's great men, and has become the theatre of many a famous scene. One of the most beautiful places of buildings in the world, the Palace of Versailles, was a strong citadel for the people that represents authority in such Germany. Officially, it is the home of the French government.
